\ Reviving Architecture Initiative

About the Initiative

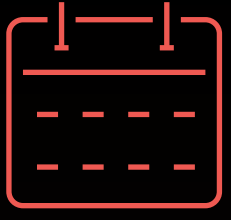

Reviving Architecture initiative is part of the Bilarab bin Haitham Initiatives and is considered the most prominent architectural event in the Sultanate of Oman. It represents a turning point in Oman's architectural landscape, bringing together all those interested in architecture for an unprecedented interactive experience. The initiative aims to foster a deep understanding of architecture, offer innovative solutions for a sustainable future, and engage the community in reviving Omani architecture through sustainable methods that include all segments of society.

The initiative targets various segments of society, including architects, students, experts, and architecture enthusiasts. The event serves as an open space that provides all visitors and participants with extensive awareness opportunities to explore experiences, concepts, and applications related to architecture as bridges connecting the past to the present, leading to a vision for the future. The initiative aims to establish a strong foundation for ongoing collaboration between architects and both the public and private sectors through an interactive platform, while documenting ideas, project proposals, and initiatives.
